Author Bio:

Nova West is an unlikely true crime crusader, but when a young, pregnant mother was found murdered in her small town, followed by the wrongful conviction of Nova's own family member, she made it her mission to help free Vonda and find Jessie's true killer. In a bold move, Nova sought the help of director and producer, Joe Berlinger, whose true crime experience might benefit Vonda Smith's case. Berlinger's series, "Wrong Man" highlights our justice system and investigates cases of the wrongly convicted. Vonda's became one such case.

She wants the world to know what happened in Greene County, Tennessee and is desperate to uncover what really happened to Jessie Morrison and how and why Vonda Smith was convicted, let alone arrested. The victim was found with several sets of male DNA on her body and underneath her fingernails, so why is a woman behind bars?

DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND

God's country has blood on its hands

nova west

A young pregnant mother is killed, and a small town demands justice, a conviction, someone to blame. When an unlikely suspect is convicted, it raises a question: Is this the culprit, a scapegoat, or a martyr? This question prompted a mother and daughter to go beyond the official version to search for the truth. As they delved deeper into the story of this murder and conviction, they found themselves asking, how many victims came out of this tragedy, and how many perpetrators? Why did it feel like everyone involved had blood on their hands but the person convicted of this horrible crime?

So, crack a cold beer, sleuths, and follow along as we search for clues and question everything. The truth could be around any corner. In this devil's playground, no one is completely innocent.

A great mystery awaits. Join us in our search for the killer.

Nova West's debut book, Devil's Playground is yet another instrument for attaining notoriety for the case and a plea to readers to act as sleuths, helping to untangle the mess.
